Pact signed to produce filter for sugarcane juice

New Delhi | Monday, May 24 2010 IST

A tile manufacturer has signed a pact with The Energy and Research Institute (TERI) for developing and manufacturing a cost-effective ceramic membrane for filtering sugarcane juice.

H & R Johnson (India), which signed the memorandum of understanding (MoU) today, said the ceramic membrane will help the sugar industry improve yield and quality of sugar produced by it and thus enhance its profit. HRJ and TERI will jointly conduct research to upscale technology and commercialise the membrane filter, the company said in a statement.
